Through a research-based plan that launched in late 2017, the Safer Tomorrows Road Map has developed significant local, regional and state impact. Through core pillars of Safety, Healing, Prevention & Education, this comprehensive approach has been evolving since 1980, and today, grant partners, national training programs and universal boards recognize CVIC leaders as industry experts. In 2025 alone, we served nearly 4,000 individuals and educate more than 17,000 youth and adults annually about violence intervention and prevention.
